

Record-Breaking Pilot Describes Space Entry

EL CENTRO, Calif. — "You're up there for three long seconds."

That's the terse way a Navy pilot yesterday described the climax of a missile-like climb into the fringe of space in which he set an unofficial world altitude record for conventional jet aircraft.

"Actually, this was a brief, technological invasion of space—a jet engine operating at an altitude at which it is not meant to operate," said Lt. Cmdr. George Watkins, who rode the swept-wing Grumman F11F-1F to 76,828 feet, above the Mojave Desert Wednesday.

The previous record, 70,308 feet, was set last summer by a British Canberra jet.

Watkins' climb of approximately 14.6 miles is far exceeded by the 24-mile height attained by the rocket-powered X-2.

"You have to know exactly the right angle to apply in the climb," said Watkins, 37, who flashed at 45,000 feet over the desert at better than 1,200 m.p.h. before he yanked back on the stick.

"You keep a grease pencil down in the webbing of your gee suit and when you're flying level you draw a line along the inside of the canopy along the horizon line. When you pull back on the stick you allow maybe another five degrees and keep the 45-degree angle line parallel to the horizon. This gives you the angle of climb."

"It seems like you're going straight up. The altimeter is spinning like this. (He spun his finger like an eggbeater.)

"You are climbing at 50,000 feet per minute."

What happens at the peak of the climb?

"For the first time you have a chance to look around but you can't take time to lean over and look down at the ground."

"But you do take a glance at the altimeter. You hope it shows something because that's what you came up here for—to set a record."

"Then you nose her down. She begins to pick up speed and you can maneuver the plane again."

Nickel Beer Has Comeback After Ike Airst Appeal

NEW YORK — Tavern owner Lewis T. Gill has a head start on everybody in following President Eisenhower's advice to cut prices and encourage more people to buy.

Gill pulled out all stops earlier in the week at his bar and grill: he brought back the nickel beer, a 7-ounce glass of it too. In addition, he offered whiskey for a quarter and a cheese and salami sandwich for a dime.

There's a sign in his place reading "The President says buy. Large beer, 5 cents, 1915 prices."

summit meeting as early as possible.

"That is why we are meeting—to narrow our differences," the foreign minister said.

Cites Danger of "Slip"

Gromyko declared one slip by a U.S. technician manning the radar screens of the American early warning system could precipitate a global atomic war.

The U.S. Air Force command, Gromyko said, has confirmed that American bombers carrying atomic and hydrogen bombs are repeatedly sent across the North Pole toward the Soviet Union.

This happens, he said, every time a blip appears on U.S. radar screens.

American radar screen operators have mistaken electronic disturbances or meteorite showers for guided missiles or ballistic rockets, he said.

In every instance so far the bombers were turned back as soon as the error was discovered, he said.

"But what would happen if these generals—whose nerves, as the facts show, often give way—were not able to distinguish in time a flying meteorite from a guided missile and the American bombers continued their flights and approached the borders of the Soviet Union?"

The Soviet Union, Gromyko said, would be forced to take "immediate steps to remove the approaching danger."

Head Of AMA Aims Warning Of 'Socialism'

BALTIMORE — The president of the American Medical Assn. says creeping socialism of medicine has become a very serious threat to private practice.

Dr. David B. Allman said examples of increasing socialism included the wide scope of free Veterans Administration medical services and a bill before Congress to extend government medical service to an estimated 13 million persons by amending the Social Security Act.

These measures "may be good politics, but they lead to bad medicine," the Atlantic City, N. J., physician said.

In a speech before the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, Dr. Allman also attacked attempts to regulate doctor's fees.

Ancient Ice Gets Tests For Use In Dinner Cocktails

NEW YORK — If health authorities approve, chunks of thousands of years old will chill cocktails at a dinner here next Monday.

The 100 pounds of the frozen stuff, cut from a New Zealand glacier dating back to prehistoric times, were flown here this week from the Tasman Glacier on Mt. Cook.

Bacteriologists began a study to find out if the ancient ice is hygienic. If so, it will be served in drinks at a dinner to be given by Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand's ambassador.

If not pronounced safe, the ice will be used to cool the champagne.

al coverage to 50 per cent of the number of weeks provided under the various state plans. This would limit the extension to a maximum of 13 weeks in most large industrial states.

The Democrats dropped their original proposal to fix the amount of payments at a minimum of 50 per cent of the individual's average wage. Instead, amounts would remain in conformity with present state standards.

Associated Press Cites Space Age Staff Boosted

NEW YORK — The dawn of the space age found The Associated Press geared to cover in depth the resulting interest in science, education and defense, Frank J. Starzel, AP general manager, said today.

"The staff of writers covering science and other specialized fields has been reinforced, and the broad interest in this type of news is reflected generally through the organization," he said in his annual report.

He said, "Our planning assumes a broader perspective, and we must be ready to meet new challenges quickly and positively."

Starzel's report was sent to members of The AP, worldwide news-gathering cooperative, in advance of the annual meeting to be held Monday in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The luncheon speaker will be Robert McLean, president of the Philadelphia Bulletin and former president of The Associated Press.

"It is no longer enough for the newsmen to be just a competent reporter or editor," Starzel said. "Demands of the news are so multiple that staffers must back-ground themselves educationally as never before in history."

Starzel said one area of news reporting requiring great care is in telling the story of the business recession. The AP, he said, will continue to emphasize balance to keep the story in focus.

"The Associated Press business news department," he said, "accelerated the flow of interpretive and analytical articles and national and international roundups to provide a comprehensive picture of the vast forces that were at work in the economy."

Starzel reported that many technical advances have made possi-

Patient Badly Burned In Hospital Fire

BALTIMORE — A tuberculosis patient was seriously burned last night when fire broke out in his room at City Hospitals.

George Shultz, about 37, was admitted to the hospital's surgical ward with first and second degree burns over 50 per cent of his body, from expelling the dense smoke.

Firemen spent an hour and a half fighting the blaze which destroyed the interior of the room. They said their efforts were hampered by heavy mesh covering the windows which prevented them from expelling the dense smoke.

THEY RE-GREW HAIR!

IN 9 MONTHS IN 6 MONTHS

Mr. H. Newhouse, Woodale, Ill. Mrs. H. Haller, Miami, Florida
Noted hair expert warns, "Don't put it off until it's all off."

Hair Specialist Here Saturday
Will Show How To Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — New hair treatment methods for ing person justifies his condition saving hair and improving its with one or the other of these growth will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Saturday, April 19.

Trichologist J. J. Stalteri will be in charge, representing the dynamic Harlow Hair Experts organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:00 to 8:00 p.m. Saturday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Harlow expert.

Who Can't Be Helped?
For many years now Harlow Hair Experts have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Harlow home treatment.

Will the new Harlow treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are sick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still treating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, over-illness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Harlow home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Harlow method is that the organization has quickly expanded to serve hundreds of cities in 32 states.

The most important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late." Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) pro-

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Each One Counts

IT'S A COMMON thing for any individual to say, in a voting year like this one, that his one vote doesn't really matter so it makes no difference whether or not he votes. Evidently a lot of persuasion is required before some people will realize that the entire vote is made up of just such individual components. When a large number of people decide on a given occasion that their votes aren't necessary or don't matter, the result at the polls is sometimes highly damaging to the public interest. So it can be, too, in an individual's private world if at any time he decides he doesn't count.

HERE WE ARE today with upwards of 170 million in America, and 220 million expected by 1975. Most of us are in the cities and towns. As we mill about, rubbing elbows and jarring ribs, we may conclude — not surprisingly — that as individual humans we count for less and less. But it isn't really true. No matter how many of us there are on the scene, our country and our world can only be the sum of all the things we all do as individuals both in our private and our public lives. In the tighter circle of family, friends and neighbors, we are always an irreplaceable link. We cannot die, move away, go to jail or even get a divorce without breaking the circle and leaving an unhappy void. You may be the uncle who tells stories to your nieces and nephews, one half of a couple people like to have over when they talk music and drama, somebody's golfing partner, the office joker, the neighbor who helps others dig their cars out of the snow, the fellow who builds the scenery at the community playhouse.

NOT ONE OF THESE roles is unimportant—however small they may seem and we may think them. As we move through life, we play countless interlocking roles like these, from time to time dropping some and adding others. When somehow we step out of this complex web, or shatter a firm pattern as in divorce, all those we touch in our daily passage are affected. In greater or lesser measure, their lives will never be the same. That's how it is for all of us, whether there be 170 million Americans or 300 million. Each man is an archstone. If he falls from the arch he is missed, no matter how long the bridge grows.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower is doing a lot these days to get baseball on its feet. First he tipped off one of the big league teams about a hot prospect—the son of a White House aide. Then he opened the season for the Senators—and they won, 5 to 2.

"A" For Effort

THE LAMENTS OF New Yorkers over the shift of the Dodgers and Giants to the West Coast are an old story now. But there's been one small, yet interesting, postscript. Most of the groans never accomplished much because they weren't translated into action directed toward keeping those fabled baseball teams in New York. However, a Giant root'r named Julius November declined to content himself with mere vocal protest. He filed suit in a New York court to bar the Giants from moving to San Francisco. Just the other day his case came up. The judge, Harry B. Frank, found his loyalties torn. He was a Giant fan, too. He openly confessed his sympathies were with the plaintiff. But in the end he held to his concept of judicial duty and ruled against Mr. November. His only concession was verbal. Said he: "The court, as distinguished from Justice Frank the fan, must find that the plaintiff's contentions, while sentimental, four-baggers are legally out." The Giant management isn't likely to hand Julius any bronze plaques. But maybe his picture ought to go up in City Hall. It was a good try.

CONSIDERING the White House-Senate hassle over Pentagon reorganization, it was a little startling to read that President Eisenhower was pleased the Senators had won—until it turned out that the Senators play baseball rather than politics.

"Help!!"

Ike's Grasp Of Politics Put To Test

WASHINGTON. — Any claim that the rivers and harbors bill vetoed by President Eisenhower is an anti-recession measure is as phony as some of the projects listed in it.

Nor is it a fair test of the President's sentiments about government spending to counteract the depression. The President must take responsibility for the big deficits such spending would entail. If he must accept deficits, he no doubt has other preferences about where to incur them which, in his view, would pay bigger dividends in jobs, political steam and public confidence.

WHAT THE veto does call into question are the President's grasp of practical politics and his understanding of the development needs of the country.

There is so much logrolling in rivers and harbors legislation that the cynics tend to dismiss it merely as a Congressional Christmas tree with something for everybody on it. This is true to a degree, but is not the whole story.

A rivers and harbors bill is the vehicle by which important, even essential, development of these prized natural resources is carried on.

It emerges from Congress with some fancy frosting, but it also contains a lot of yeast, nourishing dough in the figurative and colloquial sense of that word.

The problem for any President and responsible legislator is to get as much of the dough as possible and as little frosting.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has met the problem since 1954 by vetoing two rivers and harbors bills approved by Congress, one in 1956 and one this week. This can be described as an act of political courage, since such bills naturally tend to come up in election years.

It also, in the view of many Congressmen, including Republicans, has a strong flavor of throwing the baby out with the bath. For example, flooded California has run out of authorization in some of its river basins during the four-year lapse in legislation.

THE PRESIDENT proposes that the worthy projects approved by Army Engineers be put in a separate bill and the others sent to him one by one. This amounts to asking for the item veto and Congress is about as likely to give any President that as Harry Truman is to invite the Vice-President to dinner.

Nor is it reasonable to expect that elected members of Congress, especially in the House, will feel that the development of other constituencies are more important than their own. They can justly argue that if they so voted, the chances of their districts getting a new Congressman would be enhanced.

Nobody has ever pretended that the Democratic way was either cheap or superlatively efficient. Nor do members of Congress, upon their ascension to their honored places lose the attributes common to the human race.

The President has not suggested a better way, which has a reasonable chance of success, to continue the developments which are desirable in the bills he vetoes. Conservationists are correspondingly downcast, and they come from both parties.

A conservation foot note to the four-year lag in this field: the rivers of the Soviet Union which flow to the sea are greater than those here; the Soviets are engaged in 44 major starts on river projects and innumerable minor ones.

Good Wheat Weather Blow To Farm Plan

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The apparent futility of trying to devise a farm plan that will keep both farmers and consumers happy is now shown by what is happening in wheat.

Preliminary Department of Agriculture estimates put this year's wheat crop at 1,190,000,000 bushels. That would make it the fourth largest crop in U.S. history.

There are a couple of big "ifs" in this estimate.

Spring wheat planting isn't completed. The estimate is based on reported intentions to plant spring wheat, plus winter wheat actually planted last fall and its condition, which is excellent. A bad growing season — another drought or wet summer — could cut the crop considerably.

But the weather last fall, during the winter and so far this spring has been nearly perfect for wheat.

After several bad years, farmers just haven't been able to resist the urge to overplant — particularly in the plains states.

EFFECTS of a billion bushel plus wheat crop this year will be far reaching — both politically and economically.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson have been arguing that if price support levels could just be lowered, production would drop automatically. Just the opposite seems to have happened.

The price support on wheat was $2 a bushel in 1956 and 1957. This was 80 per cent of parity. Last year Secretary Benson cut the support price for the 1958 wheat crop to $1.78 a bushel. This is 75 per cent of parity.

According to the Benson theory, this 22-cent drop in support price should have reduced planting. But it went up.

WHAT THE EFFECT of all this will be on market price is a matter of conjecture.

Normally, a big crop means lower prices. The recent average price for No. 2 hard wheat at Kansas City has been around $2.50 a bushel. Prices received by farmers have been under $2.00, which is the support price. With a $1.78 support price for the new crop and a bumper yield, there is some possibility that the farm price will drop to the support level.

In an election year, that would be bad medicine for the party in power.

THE NATIONAL wheat acreage allotment for the past three years has been 55 million acres. Actual plantings have been 60.7 million acres in 1956, down to 49.9 million acres in 1957, up to 56.6 million acres estimated for this year.

The drop to just under 50 million acres in 1957 is attributed to the Soil Bank Plan. Farmers took 12.3 million acres of wheat out of production and put it in reserve. This year, only 3.0 million acres of wheat land were withdrawn. This 7.3-million acre drop in soil bank wheat acreage is a disappointment that comes close to being a failure.

The predicted billion bushel crop for this year is not entirely a matter of acreage, however. Yields per acre have been going up steadily.

A BIN-BUSTING wheat crop

this year would also be a disaster for the surplus crop disposal plan.

By dint of a tremendous foreign sales campaign, the U.S. wheat carry over has been reduced from 1,036 million bushels on July 1, 1955, to 909 million bushels last July 1. The carry over on next July 1 is estimated at 880 million bushels.

With a crop of 1,190 million bushels this year, there may be a surplus production of 190 million bushels. This, added to the 880-million-bushel estimated carry over for next July 1, would put total carry over on July 1, 1959 at 1,170 million bushels.

In summary, when those two uncertain factors of the behavior of the weather and the behavior of men combine, they throw all the best laid plans of farm experts right into the trash barrel.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Tuesday

BEER BILL UNLAWFUL — Federal Judge George McClellin in Charleston today ruled the West Virginia beer law is "unconstitutional, null and void," and ordered the grand jury to return indictments where there is evidence of beer being transported into the state.

OLD PAPER FOUND — An August 20, 1773, issue of the Maryland Journal has been discovered in an old log cabin being torn down in Oldtown. The paper carries an advertisement by George Washington calling attention to 20,000 acres of land on the Ohio and Kanawha rivers which he is offering for sale or lease.

WORK ON COUNTY LEVY — The County Commissioners are engaged in drawing up the annual levy for the fiscal year of 1933-34. It is understood economies have been effected, and that the tax rate will be lowered from $1.50 to about $1.25.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — You pass a sunny, beautiful day in the country and decide, about 4 o'clock, to go to the Waldorf in town to see the Tony Awards, the theatre of New York's own badges of merit for distinguished performance.

You get into dinner clothes and a black tie while your bride hustles into ecru lace and in no time you are on the parkways bound for New York at a brisk, traffic-muscled 14 miles an hour. It takes you two hours to get to the Waldorf, but fortunately you know the boys in the basement and you park there without effort, step into an elevator and are whisked upstairs to the grand ballroom.

THE CREAM of New York's theatre is there and, as you walk toward the crowd, your bride says, "I'll bet you a dollar even that there won't be two chemise or sack dresses among 300 women, Bet?"

You bet, eagerly, and you lose. There is one, and only one, and it is worn by Anne Bancroft, who is to be a winner this night for her work in "Two for the Seesaw." But neither of you say a word to Miss Bancroft on that score.

Trudging in for dinner, you run into Josephine Premice, the singer-comedienne, who is ambling along with Sir Laurence Olivier. You chat with both for a few minutes, and finally find your table up near the proceedings to come.

THE GIFT FOR the ladies is a wildly crimson neckerchief studded with a gold device: The American Theatre Wing, but your bride's crimson hair clashes with it, so she tucks it into her bag as lagniappe for the girls at home.

You sit there nodding to people and Mary Martin comes by and you exchange a few words until she moves on and Glenn Anders stops to talk.

In a few moments Celeste Holm comes by and with her you both pass 10 minutes of happy conversation. She seems to have forgotten that only a few weeks ago you, among others, closed her show in a unanimous display of critical disapproval. If she remembers, she is gracious enough not to mention it.

AT THE NEXT table, Ralph Bellamy, who will win this night for his Rooseveltian performance in "Sunrise at Campobello," is having fun with a match trick and then Hal Prince, a coproducer of "West Side Story," drops by for talk. Nancy Kelly, in wine-colored satin, starts for the dance floor and you and your bride talk along.

On the floor, you stop to talk to Sydney Chaplin who tells you that he and Martha Scott have been tagged to bear the winning plaques from offstage to the winner's circle and you say:

"This is a hard job to get, it takes pull and the right connections," and he laughs and says: "I've been pulling strings since October, mending my fences and taking the right people to dinner, but it finally worked for me."

A gentleman, not of the theatre but of Wall Street, hears this in-explicable conversation and his face registers his bewilderment.

IDLY DANCING about, while younger and more rugged folk rock 'n' roll and cha-cha, you talk again to Sir Laurence and The Premice, to Jimmy Stooke, the costume monarch, and a variety of other theatre people. Ty Power talks over his partner's shoulder and you see Arthur Penn's bride, whom you met at a party a few weeks ago. You speak and she looks blank and you decide that you must not have made any impression that time. None at all.

You stop and talk to Kermit Bloomgarden, who will win this evening with "The Music Man," he being its producer, and then Bob Preston walks by, looking haunted and tired. He should be, playing the title role of that musical, a role requiring enormous energy and bounce. Bob, too, is to win this evening.

YOUR BRIDE, Hal Prince and you get off into a corner and teeter to rhythm, not moving a step at any time and conduct a sort of synecopated conversation about "West Side Story." When he dances away, your bride says: "I think this is a good time to collect my dollar."

So you pay her in full view of all, and wonder what all the shootin's about when 302, exactly, top women of the American theatre are out dressed to the teeth, most of them able to afford the newest and best and most chic in garments, and only one — just one — is wearing whatever it is, sack, chemise or tube. And you have lost a dollar on what seemed a sure bet.

THE DINNER ends and so does the dancing and the awards event goes on and when it's over many persons leave, but a few die-hards remain, you among them.

You sit with Celeste Holm a few minutes and then hash around for 15 minutes more with Syd Chaplin, a very funny young man.

About 1:30 the waiters begin clearing the tables and you meet and talk to a man named Digges, executive at CBS, and the talk becomes so diverting that suddenly you look up and you are the only two people in the entire room. The tables are cleared away and all have gone. You find your bride out in the hall with Nancy Kelly and her husband, and you drive with her back to the country.

Fat Burglar? Yes, Cindy

WASHINGTON—Burglars generally operate on tiptoe in the dark of night, and if they're proficient at their business, nobody ever sees 'em. They're usually slim and light on their feet, like cats, and that's why fat burglars are rarities.

Senator John L. McClellan and his labor racketeers committee had such a triple-jawed one under the floodlights in the caucus room, and no wonder he got caught. If he dribbled sweat on his burgling expedition like he did under questioning of the Senators, he left a trail those Philadelphia cops couldn't have missed.

THE SENATORS started with Vincent Minicci, curly-haired young man now driving a truck in California—city unspecified for reasons soon to become apparent.

In 1954 Vincent was a member of Teamsters Union Local 107 in Philadelphia; at the annual election he supported for boss of the local somebody other than Raymond Cohen, who got the honor. After the election he dropped down to pay his dues and three cents were at the curb.

He said one sneaked up behind and hit him on the head. When he was down, all three kicked him. Vincent said, certainly, he remembered who did this.

"Standup," ordered McClellan, "and see if you can point 'em out."

VINCENT did stand up and he did walk back into the audience and he did point out a trio of glum-looking gents, flanked by a pair of lawyers. "That's them," said Vincent. McClellan told 'em to come up front.

At the right was a crew-cut citizen who said he was Arthur Miller. At the left was a sporty type in a rust-colored jacket of corduroy. He said he was Armand Paleocri. In the middle was a fat one, bald with a gray fringe around the edges, who said he was Joseph Cendrowski, better known in labor circles as Cindy.

CINDY SAID he was appointed to his present union job by boss Cohen; he said he didn't know why. Committee counsel asked him how often he'd been arrested. Cindy couldn't remember.

"Seventeen times?" prompted Counsel Robert F. Kennedy. That seemed a reasonable figure to Cindy who by now was looking damp.

"How many times have you been convicted, asked Kennedy.

"Ten days I done once," Cindy replied.

Kennedy listed his convictions: three years probation for larceny; five days for disorderly conduct; 30 days for inciting to riot, and 10 days to three years for burglary.

THE FAT ONE admitted all this in a voice so low the Senators couldn't hear him, but he sought refuge in the Fifth Amendment when the lawgiver asked him about his associations with Cohen. Cindy said he didn't have to testify against himself. Neither would he admit having beaten Vincent. Neither, for that matter, would his pals. They all stood on their Constitutional rights.

"Mr. Cendrowski, are you regarded up there as a common thug?" demanded McClellan.

"Definitely not," said Cindy. "If you three men did this (heating), I wonder if you are proud of your cowardly act," the Senator continued. He got no answer and he remarked: "Silence means assent."

"Have you got a bunch of crooks running this union?" the angry Senator demanded.

"I don't know," whispered the fat one. He and pals then got out of there, carefully averting their eyes from Vincent, who long since has recovered from his wounds. There'll be more of this tale about Local 107, but I suppose oysters will yodel before I see another fat burglar.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—In most fields a man gets ahead by going from the bottom to the top. George Abou ben Hamid—may his tribe increase!—did it the other way. Now one of America's leading showmen, he won success by working his way from the top to the bottom.

"I started as an acrobat at the age of seven in Lebanon," explained Hamid. "The novice always acts as top man on the human pyramid. His goal is to work down until he is the ground man—and holds the others up."

Hamid now runs the world's largest booking agency for thrill acts. He owns the Steel Pier at Atlantic City and a chain of movie houses.

But at 62, George, one of the top turnbells of his time, can still turn a cartwheel in his office—and thinks it isn't a bad way for a busy executive to pep up his circulation.

"I COULD PROBABLY still do a somersault—maybe for Marilyn Monroe," he remarked genially. "It's the ex-athlete who quits exercising who gets flabby and fat and dies young."

Hamid has known most of the entertainment figures of two generations, but his life-long favorites are Col. William (Buffalo Bill) Cody and Annie Oakley, star marksmen with the colonel's famous Wild West show.

"I came to this country with the show 50 years ago," he recalled. "Annie Oakley bought me my first primer and taught me to read. She gave me the only schooling I ever had."

"Col. Cody made a pet of me. I remember making lemonade for him during the summertime. I started with him for 25 cents a week."

"Buffalo Bill was my hero. No man since has been worshipped in quite the way he was. They even closed the schools when he came to town."

"HE MADE MORE money for a time than any man who'd ever been in the circus business." But he was too generous.

"The only reason he died broke was that when somebody told him a sob story he'd automatically reach in his pocket for money—and he never bothered to count what he pulled out. He gave away his fortune by the handful."

It was after the Buffalo Bill show folded in 1913 that Hamid started in the booking field finding jobs for the stranded acts. Today he runs a multimillion-dollar operation and culls the world for acts.

Although he has booked the highest-priced talent in the show world, his own heart still is with the lower-paid circus performers who may risk death for a little wage.

"It burns me up to pay a singer $25,000 a week," he said, "when a tightrope walker who spent years learning his skill and puts his life in his feet every time he goes up can get only $350 to $400. It's an injustice. But the public determines the pay."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — Senator A. S. Mike Monroney, the blithe six-foot-two giant from Oklahoma, came strolling down a corridor of the Senate Office Building the other day. Literally running at full speed, just to keep abreast of him, was his press secretary, Mrs. Beth Short, who would have to stand on tiptoes to reach an even five feet.

Mrs. Short, the charming widow of the late Joe Short, press secretary to President Truman, was out of breath, but she managed to huff and puff:

"Join us—if you think you can make the pace. The Senator—puff! puff!—has the most wonderful story—pant! pant! of an encounter with the Russians in Geneva."

I entered my five-foot-seven-and-a-half as an added starter, and managed to keep on the pace until the first turn. Then I swung wide and trailed the field by five lengths. Only by putting on a superhuman burst ("superhuman" in the sense that it resembled nothing human) did I manage to keep within gasping distance of them.

SENATOR Monroney recounted that he had just returned from the Interparliamentary Council in Switzerland, whither he had gone as one of the three American delegates. They had just barely checked into their Geneva hotel when they were welcomed by their opposite numbers from the U.S.S.R. with an invitation to dinner.

"Describe them—the way you did for me!" heaved Mrs. Short, who was beginning to bow in the tendons.

"Well," said the Oklahoma man mountain, "one was a big lady, built like a full-back; another was a youngish blonde who really possessed a lot of what it takes. She had looks, and curves in the right—"

"I wouldn't wax so rhapsodic, if I were you," counseled his press secretary. "Tell him about the third member."

"The third delegate," said Senator Monroney, "was the editor of Izvestia."

The solon said he told the Russians that commitments wouldn't permit acceptance of the dinner invitation. To soften the rejection, he invited the Soviet trio to be the guests of the Americans for cocktails. At the cocktail party, the Russians became so insistent upon returning the hospitality that the Americans agreed to be their luncheon guests next day.

"IT WAS THE BEST, and most expensive lunch I've enjoyed in many a day," mused the lawmaker. "Everybody was pleasant and completely relaxed. The Russians obviously didn't have a thing on their minds except a determination to be good hosts. They said nice things about our leaders; we tried to return the compliments."

"After the luncheon we rejoined them in interparliamentary session. But halfway through the meeting, a secretary came in and slipped the editor of Izvestia a message. 'After that, the session went to pot. The Russians kept dashing in and out of the room. Their relaxed aplomb had been replaced by frenzied tension. Moreover they kept eying us fearfully.'

"Later we learned why. They—including the editor of Russia's foremost newspaper—had just learned that Bulganin had been fired. They were wild with fear that, in all the 'bottoms upping,' they might have inadvertently said something complimentary about the deposed Premier."

Bridge Tolls Decline

BALTIMORE (AP) — Road officials report traffic and revenue on Maryland toll bridges fell sharply last winter because of "very severe" weather.

Traffic volume was off 30 per cent and tolls down by 38 per cent on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge compared with March of last year, the State Roads Commission said.

The drop was less on other toll bridges.

New Version On Old Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is an old chestnut which in one form or another has been appearing in columns for years. West opened the jack of clubs against the six-diamond contract and the theme is a safety play: South wins the first club lead and plays a low club back.

clubs in dummy, pull trumps and run the rest of the tricks.

If a second high club is played, West ruffs in and leads a trump, whereupon South is left with three small clubs in his hand and only two trumps in dummy to ruff them with.

It is customary to point out about here in the article that a trump opening would beat this hand and that the play of the ace and king of clubs would also lose the contract, but I have changed the hand around a trifle from its standayd form.

The way this hand is set up, South can lay down the second high club and recover or he can make the hand even if a trump is opened. Tomorrow's article will show how.

Wall Street Hears

NEW YORK (INS) — Wall Street Hears:

Market improvement stemming from new Federal Reserve action likely to be limited . . .

Evidently, some first quarter reports are worse than even the bears had expected . . .

American Motors net could approach $1 a share in the second quarter, providing the appliance division does not become a serious drag on earnings, according to Reynolds & Co.

Union Electric first quarter net should be slightly above 70 cents of 1957 period. A $30 million stock issue is expected, says Thomson & McKinnon, either late this year or early in 1959 . . .

Babcock & Wilcox has a backlog sufficient to maintain operations for a year. Net for 1958, however, may be a trifle below the $2.69 earned last year . . .

Market comment — Sidney Lurie of Josephthal & Co.: "The new Federal Reserve steps should help psychologically in the stock market . . . It will soften the impact of first quarter reports."

Doomed Man Tries To Aid Companion

BALTIMORE (AP)—A condemned murderer testified yesterday in an attempt to clear a companion of a similar charge.

Charles W. Stansbury, sentenced to death in the gas chamber, was a witness at the trial of James D. Fitzgerald.

Stansbury, 22, was convicted of first degree murder in the holdup-slaying last January of Ralph Slinger, a 35-year-old bartender at the Coronet Lounge.

Fitzgerald, 23, on trial, and Marvin Rich also are accused of the murder.

Stansbury testified "he shot from his gun as much of a 'surprise to me as it was Jimmy.' Afterward, Stansbury said Fitzgerald was 'scared' and obeyed his order to grab the money.

The state rested its case yesterday and a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was denied.

Utility Workers Seek New Pact

Local 331, Utility Workers of America, is negotiating with the Potomac Edison Company here for a new contract.

The next session between the union and management will be held April 21 at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. The contract, signed on an annual basis, expires May 1.

Harry Deter, local union president, said members of his agreement committee include Edgar Meader, James Brown, Palmer Howsare, James Weibrecht, assisted by R. J. Brown of Greensburg, Pa., regional director for Region 2.

The utility workers are asking for an increase in hourly wage rates, and additional vacation time. They want three weeks vacation for men with 10 years service and four weeks for men with 20 years service. At the present time, men with 15 years' service get three weeks vacation and men with lesser time get up to two weeks paid holiday.

According to the Census Bureau, 9,900,000 Americans, not including inmates of institutions, live alone.

VA CONTACT MAN — Frank T. Trawinski, 41, native of Baltimore, is contact representative at the Veterans Administration office, Post Office Building, succeeding on a temporary basis Benjamin Flack, who retired.

River Gives Up Body Of W. Va. Trucker

WELLSBURG (AP)—Brooke County authorities said the body of Melvin Eastham, 34, of Wellsburg, was found in Buffalo Creek near its juncture with the Ohio River south of here Thursday.

Coroner C.R. Megahan said he would certify that death was by accidental drowning, but that he would not rule the case a suicide.

The sheriff's office said Eastham had been missing from his home for about a week. Relatives had described him as despondent. Survivors include the widow, a son, three daughters and two stepsons.

Eastham was employed by a Follansbee trucking company. The body was found by Louis Kasegi and Eugene Tolley, both of Steubenville, Ohio, who were crossing the Ohio in an outboard motorboat.

Crisfield Harbor Project Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House public works subcommittee was asked yesterday to authorize modification of a plan to improve the Crisfield, Md., harbor.

The committee was told that modification of the authorized plan to improve the Crisfield harbor is sought by local interests on the ground that the present proposal is no longer satisfactory. The alternate plan, an Army engineer spokesman said, would cost no more than the proposal now considered unsatisfactory.

Under the alternate proposal, an existing drawbridge, piers and other structures would be removed as well as wrecks from the area to be dredged.

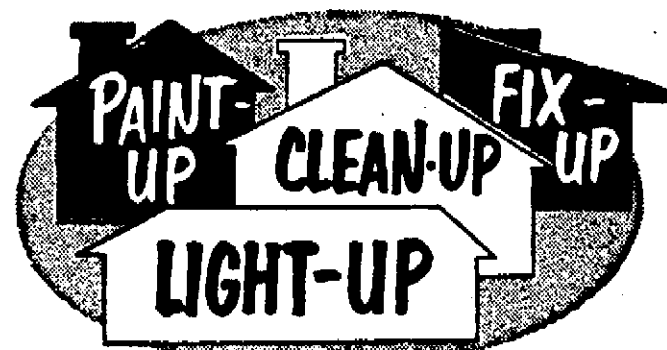

It also provides for a public access road on the north side of Somers Cove.

"Harmony" Ticket Welcomed To City

The Democratic "harmony" ticket was welcomed to Cumberland last night at the Eagles Home by approximately 400 of the party faithful who found much to applaud in a talk by Thomas D'Alesandro, who is seeking his party's nomination for U. S. Senator.

State Demo Candidates Keep Active

Long Challenges Mahoney Courage; Lane Boosts Bruce

While the Democratic Party's "harmony" slate campaigned in Western Maryland today, other major candidates had their say in other parts of the state.

Most of the political activity today centered about the Democratic race for the U. S. Senate nomination. As the "harmony" ticket candidate, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, campaigned here and in Garrett County, at least two of his rivals were active.

George P. Mahoney picked up strength in southern Maryland where four of the six members of the Democratic County Committee pledged their support. Members of the committee were among more than 500 Democrats signing a pro-Mahoney petition within the past few days.

Happy With Reception Mahoney remarked, "I've been very happy with the reception I've received in Southern Maryland this week. In Charles, Calvert and St. Marys counties, farmers, workmen and business men are convinced that the Republicans just don't have their interests at heart."

"The vast majority of them want me to win this nomination because they feel I will be a fighting candidate — and a fighting senator who will stand up for their interests and who knows their problems."

But another of his rivals for the Democratic Senate nomination, Clarence D. Long, declared that Mahoney was avoiding the opportunity for a "free-slugging television debate" on campaign issues.

Long, an economics professor at Johns Hopkins, accused Mahoney of being false to his Irish name and the Kelly green he uses on campaign posters.

Long had challenged the other three major candidates to discuss issues in an unheated TV program, suggesting that expenses be shared.

He brought down the ire of James Bruce by terming the wealthy industrialist a "lightweight millionaire" for not wanting to share the expense of a TV debate.

So Bruce withdrew his offer to appear on such a program, declaring it would be beneath his dignity to appear with Long after the professor's ridicule.

However, another candidate for the Democratic Senate nomination, William J. Fadler of Silver Spring, announced he had responded with Long and agreed to a television debate on national defense. Fadler said he would commit his free time over a Baltimore station (WBAL-TV) for the debate if Long would do likewise.

Lane Boosts Bruce Meanwhile, Bruce's race for the Senate nomination was bolstered by the announcement former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr. had accepted chairmanship of the statewide advisory campaign committee.

Lane said through an announcement at Bruce's Baltimore campaign headquarters that he plans to stump with the candidate in at least seven counties. They are Washington, Kent, Frederick, Dorchester, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester.

The statement added: "The former governor will not restrict his efforts to those counties, but will work on a statewide basis in the interests of the Bruce candidacy."

Bruce, concluding a tour through three lower Eastern Shore counties, said he had encountered "considerable distress among the friends of Mr. Tawes" over his alliance with D'Alesandro. Bruce termed it a trap which might jeopardize Tawes' chances for the governorship.

Comptroller J. Millard Tawes is the "harmony" ticket candidate for governor.

Joseph L. Manning, a candidate for the Democratic comptroller nomination, criticized his "harmony" ticket opponent, Louis Goldstein for what Manning called "political happiness pills."

Manning said Goldstein has been "following the wornout political line of promising everything to everybody without any serious intentions except to win the election."

In a speech at Wingate, Dorchester County, Manning said Goldstein had promised to form a legislative committee to study the problems of Eastern Shore watermen.

He said Goldstein has been in the State Senate for 12 years and asked what his opponent had done during that time to alleviate the problems he talks about in campaign speeches.

Work On Court EASTON, Md. — A group of Maryland judges and lawyers set to work today to try to streamline procedures of the Court of Appeals.

The Baltimore mayor was in his best fighting form as he noted he has supported and will continue to support labor legislation. He called for an immediate extension of unemployment benefits.

"All Washington does is delay," said D'Alesandro. "The time is coming when people will have to march on Annapolis to call for a special session of the legislature to remedy the situation."

Other Candidates Speak In other highlights of the rally: J. Millard Tawes, candidate for governor, called for the formation of a Maryland economic commission.

Louis J. Goldstein, candidate for comptroller, suggested the time is close at hand for Democrats to pick Maryland's political plums.

C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for re-election as attorney general, pointed out there is more interest in the election among Democrats than in many years and the party has a good chance to make Allegany County Democratic.

Tawes, who stated he will do his best to justify the confidence placed in him, listed four functions of his proposed economic commission. He said it would:

(1) Engage in research and planning for the state's industrial potential, (2) seek new industry with a shining example set by Cumberland and aid in fund raising to assist industry, (3) create a development division to send representatives to industry to point out the state's advantages and (4) advertise and promote Maryland with a full representation of labor, industry, and government on the commission.

Dedicated To Service "We must sell the state and create an economy to support the state services," said Tawes in reporting that the "harmony" ticket is composed of a group of candidates "dedicated to public service."

D'Alesandro declared he is conducting a clean campaign based on his record. He stated the Republican administration in Washington is putting the farmer out of business, is cutting veterans' benefits and had made Maryland a step-child. He said the state is being denied rivers and harbors work, that federal facilities at Indian Head, Holabird and Bainbridge are being curtailed and that contracts are being shifted to California to help Vice President Nixon win the Republican nomination for President.

He reviewed his platform and called for legislation to eliminate discrimination of employment of the middle-aged. He said he opposes the natural gas bill and paid TV.

He called for extension of trade treaties, adequate foreign aid, aid to education on all levels, adequate pay for federal workers, help for the small businessman, and a policy to return the farmer to his proper place.

Time For Action "Something went wrong eight years ago," he said. "Now we have a Republican governor and two Republican senators. It is time for the Democrats to do something about it and there will be a meeting of minds in the primary May 20. We have a team that can win in the fall."

Nothing that Maryland is the birthplace of toleration, he said he is proud of his religion and his ancestors and that "He that throws dirt loses ground."

He said that his experience in office entitles him to a promotion.

"I had wanted to be governor but I believe the party is bigger than I am and I stepped aside. I am happy I did so," he said.

"I stepped aside for harmony and became a candidate for the Senate and now my opponents are fighting among themselves."

He concluded by saying that never before in Baltimore has there been such widespread endorsement of a ticket as the "harmony" slate.

During his visit here D'Alesandro said: "The Republican administration is not sure whether we are (Continued on Page 12)"

REALLY IN HARMONY — The Democratic Party's "harmony" slate went in for a different kind of harmony at a rally here last night—the vocal kind. Safe Driving Awards Go To 68 Employees

Safe driving awards were presented 68 local employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company at the Cumberland service center in South End Wednesday.

The men, who work as installers and repairmen in this vicinity, received certificates from Cpl. Harry S. Bosley, of the LaVale Barracks of State Police.

Bosley addressed the group. They represent a total of 535 years of safe driving. Last year they drove 297,000 miles without an accident.

A group of 25 men received ten-year pins for perfect records. They accounted for 15,206,000 miles without property damage mishaps.

Four men honored for having the longest records, Vincent Lindner, R. I. Diehl, J. E. Wilson and G. A. Hinds, accounted for a total of 123 accident-free years.

Charles Smith, plant wire chief, said there will be a total of 35 phone workers in Allegany and Garrett counties who will receive certificates.

They account for 718 years of safe driving, he pointed out.

Road Problem Goes Before County Board

Rerouting School Bus In Flintstone Under Consideration

Several problems pertaining to roads were discussed today by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

A copy of a letter from Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the State Roads Commission, to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of school bus transportation in Allegany County was read.

Ramey had written the SRC about the rerouting of school buses due to the closing of the old section of U. S. Route 40 east of Flintstone High School. Bonnell stated that the SRC had made a number of investigations of the situation and it is hoped to select a route which will be suitable. Some of the locations for rerouting the bus were too steep and others would be too expensive, Bonnell said the safety factor was paramount in any decision made by the SRC.

A second letter was received from G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, concerning a complaint of John F. Rowe, Winchester Road, about the roadway being higher than his residence.

Chaires told the county commissioners that the home had been built some years ago and was then lower than the Winchester Road. In 1933 the SRC obtained rights of way from George Williams, who was the owner of the residence, he added.

Pictures showing the roadway and house before and after Winchester Road was modernized were enclosed in the letter.

Those fishermen who waited patiently during the long, cold spring, have been blessed with perfect weather ever since trout season opened Saturday morning. It is hard to single out a group which has not benefited greatly by the warm weather,—it's one thing on which everyone agrees.

The official high in Constitution Park yesterday was 79 degrees. At the Times-News building, the recording thermometer had the temperature up to 81 degrees at 1 p. m.

But at noon today, it equalled that mark and apparently was on the way to higher points.

Wednesday, the downtown reading was 75 degrees at 2 p. m.

Permission was granted today by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for the erection of a sign at the intersection of Williams Road and Creek Road indicating the name of the latter thoroughfare.

Clyde A. Ballou appeared before the board to state that Creek Road should be indicated by such a sign for the convenience of persons who are unaware of its location. Ballou was told to confer with J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, on the location of the sign.

The union leaders, including Kenneth Carbaugh, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters Union, and Robert Weaver, business agent of Local 616, Laborer's Union, said they would help in obtaining volunteers to pack and handle the distribution.

Police Probe Entry Tries City Police are investigating two breaking and entering attempts, both of which occurred at approximately the same time last night and in the same general area.

Detective Kenneth W. Morrissey was called to the Cumberland Steel Company plant on Williams Street around 8 p. m. yesterday after it was discovered a rear window at the plant had been removed in an apparent attempt to gain entry.

The wooden strips around the window had been removed, Morrissey's report stated, but it was not thought that the intruder had gained entrance before the attempt was completed.

Shortly afterwards, Detective Morrissey was called to an automotive supply establishment on Winnow Street where it was discovered a rear door had been forced. A check of the premises failed to show that anything was missing, but an inventory was to be taken today.

Evening Times' Series To Help Reading Habits

The Evening Times will begin a five-part series Monday on how readers can benefit more out of a daily newspaper.

The series, written by Ward Cannel of NEA news service, relates that most people read too slowly and grasp too little of what they read. The stories are designed to overcome these habits.

The series will present time-tested methods based on the world-wide experience of the Reading Laboratory Inc., to enable anyone to improve his reading speed and comprehension.

Cumberland Temperature Above Eighty

For the second straight day, the temperature in downtown Cumberland surged over the 80-degree mark.

The weather this week has been ideal, evoking much favorable comment from the winter-beleagued residents of this section.

And the weekend forecast calls for more warm weather. Tomorrow is to be partly cloudy and warm, and Sunday is to be the same with some chance of a few scattered afternoon showers.

The warm, dry spell, while creating forest fire danger, is giving the farmers a chance to catch up with their plowing and get their fields planted with early crops.

Those fishermen who waited patiently during the long, cold spring, have been blessed with perfect weather ever since trout season opened Saturday morning. It is hard to single out a group which has not benefited greatly by the warm weather,—it's one thing on which everyone agrees.

Labor Seeks Special Meet Of Assembly

BALTIMORE (AP) — Representatives of organized labor planned to meet with Gov. McKeldin Tuesday to seek a special session of the General Assembly on unemployment problems.

Announcement of the meeting was made yesterday by W. F. Strong, president of the Maryland and District of Columbia AFL-CIO.

Strong said the governor would be asked what program the State has for economic relief and when it would be put into effect. Labor is in favor of a long range program rather than one of stop gap measures, Strong added.

The announcement of the labor objectives followed a meeting of labor leaders from throughout the state. Strong said the purpose of the meeting was to review the unemployment situation and devise means to put into effect a 16-point legislative program announced earlier this week.

The meeting was described as the first held by Maryland labor to coordinate the legislative efforts of various unions and labor councils.

More than one-fifth of the total area of the Bronx, New York, is devoted to parks.

suffering from a recession or a depression. The fact remains, however, that both the cost of living and unemployment are increasing at the same time. The law of supply and demand seems to have been repealed by a Republican administration controlled by big, by monopolistic business.

Favors Public Works

"I am in favor of embarking on public works before it is too late, and I shall be in favor of a tax cut, if necessary, to increase purchasing power throughout the economy. The urban renewal program, one of our great hopes for the future, should be spurred rather than retarded."

All of the speakers cited the experience of the candidates and Goldstein declared: "Mayor D'Alessandro is a man who gets things done."

Senate President Goldstein stated he expects the endorsement of the CIO-AFL in a few days and said if there had been a Democratic administration in Annapolis and Washington there would not be so many employment layoffs.

Thomas B. Finan, Allegany County Democratic chairman and leader in the counties for the "harmony" ticket, presided. He introduced the various candidates for local office as well as Edward D. Storm of Frederick County, and David A. Heller of Montgomery County, two of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for the Sixth District seat in the U. S. House of Representatives. He also introduced William C. Walsh, former attorney general, and Central Committee members.

In Garrett Today

Finan forecast victory in the primary and said a successful tour of part of the county was conducted yesterday. The four candidates are in Garrett County today and will be back in Allegany County tomorrow. There will be a rally at the William James Hotel in Oakland tonight.

Simon F. Reilly, "harmony" ticket county chairman, said the Democrats in Maryland have had eight years of famine but "I can smell victory. That is the reason for such a large turnout tonight."

"The 'harmony' ticket is a quality slate. We have good merchandise and we can sell it," stated Reilly.

Walsh said that with D'Alessandro on the ticket there is no doubt but that the Democrats will win.

"It is a representative ticket and we can't lose with it," stated the former attorney general. "It is only good sense to pick these four men."

Area Resident Found Dead Near His Home

A 45-year-old resident of RD 1, Ridgeley, was found dead of a shotgun wound in the abdomen yesterday in a wooded area about three quarters of a mile from his home.

West Virginia State Police identified the man as Ralph Adam Schafer, who had been employed as a brakeman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. The wound was self-inflicted, police said.

Cpl. Evon Moody of the State Police detachment at Keyser said the man's widow, Mrs. Charlotte Schafer, informed him that her husband left home yesterday morning with a 16 gauge weapon.

When he failed to return home in time to report for work neighbors conducted a search of the area. Failing to find Schafer, the Short Gap Volunteer Fire Company was asked to participate in the search, and Schafer's body was found at about 5 p. m. just off Everstone Road.

Cpl. Moody said Schafer apparently leaned over the shotgun and pushed the trigger with a forked stick that was along side his body.

Mrs. Schafer said her husband became sick yesterday morning and was complaining of a pain in his side when he left their home.

Survivors, besides his widow, include two daughters, Helen L. 10, and Norma J. Schafer, 4.

W. Va. Park Setup Outlook Bright In Financial Way

CHARLESTON — The outlook is bright for West Virginia's state park system, reported in financial difficulty a few months ago.

Conservation Director Warden M. Lane said today that an increase in appropriations and business prospects for this summer make him confident the commission will be able to meet its obligations on $4,400,000 in park revenue bonds.

"We'll meet the total bond obligation of $367,000 a year and have sufficient money to operate the parks," Lane predicted.

Last winter Lane told the Board of Public Works the state might not be able to meet the bond obligation without additional help.

The conservation director pointed out the total park program financed by the bonds will be operating this year for the first time. The last of the eight projects, Mont Chateau Lodge on Cheat Lake near Morgantown, will be completed and dedicated in June.

"We don't anticipate any recession in state park business," Lane said. He added that Cacapon and Lost River state parks are booked solid from June 16 to Sept. 1 and that Blackwater and Watoga state parks are almost filled.

The 53rd Legislature increased the commission's general revenue appropriation by $184,463 over the preceding appropriation, Lane said. In addition, the commission expects about $568,000 from special revenues, or an increase of $100,000 with which to operate the parks.

FROSTBURG—Church of the Nazarene at Charles and Center Streets will dedicate extensive remodeling work Sunday, beginning at 2:30 p. m., according to Rev. Joseph D. Byers, pastor.

The present remodeling project began in 1955 when quarters became cramped due to the growth of the church and the Sunday School. Plans were drawn up and arrangements made for the financing. Actual work then began in 1956 under the supervision of the pastor with William Norcraft as the carpenter on the job. The edifice was completely veneered in natural stone which was supplied by Allen Baker who also did the excavating necessary to enlarge the basement for use as Sunday School rooms.

Rev. Byers stated that much credit goes to the women and men of the church who labored long and hard and, in giving their time which saved thousands of dollars on the construction. The complete cost of the new work was $21,000 with the valuation being well over $50,000.

The program of dedication will be as follows: Prelude by Mrs. Inez Lewis; Rev. L. L. Wright, congregational singing; Rev. Joseph D. Byers, vocal solo; Rev. Byers, address of welcome, followed by greetings from churches having attendance at the affair; Men's Quartet, song; Rev. E. E. Grosse, district superintendent of the Washington District, sermon; dedicatory affirmation led by the pastor with the dedicatory prayer being given by Rev. H. E. Hockett; Rev. Luke M. Light, benediction.

Present officers of the church who aided in the planning and completion of the work: Charles Hitchens Jr., secretary; Irvin Sperry, treasurer and Young People's president; Mrs. Delbert Wilson, Sunday School superintendent; Mrs. Francis Snyder, missionary president; trustees, Allen Baker, chairman, Charles Hitchens Jr., Elwood Tysinger, George Lashbaugh and Claude Neat; stewards, Mrs. Anna Lavin, Mrs. Minnie Lashbaugh, Mrs. Nettie Hitchens, Mrs. Ethel Snyder and Mrs. Hattie Neat.

Brief Mention

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am well traveled and I have concluded that the Arabians have the right system. A man should be entitled to have as many wives as he can afford. When is the rest of the world going to wake up and realize this is the only intelligent way to live?

WELL-TRAVELED
DEAR WELL: I have wonderful news for you. A plane can get you to any point in Arabia in approximately 26 hours. Fly now and pay later.

DEAR ABBY: My first husband and I agreed to disagree four years ago. I took the two kids, naturally. He married a woman who looks like a lady-wrestler and I think she's off her rocker. She is so jealous of him. He comes on Sunday to see the kids and this lady-wrestler sits out there in the car while he comes inside. She isn't ashamed to look through a pair of binoculars into my front window (from the car). If he spends more than the agreed hour in the house she sits on the horn. Now, tell me, do I have a right to complain?

CHICKIE
DEAR CHICKIE: Your ex-husband's present wife is his problem — not yours. If she behaves in the manner described by you I think you are lucky she sits in the car (binoculars and all!).

DEAR ABBY: In the process of of housecleaning I came across a sex education book in the bedroom of my 14-year-old daughter. Personally, I think it is beyond her. My question is: "Should I mention it to her or should I just toss it out and forget it?"

WORRIED MOM
DEAR MOM: Do not toss it out. Tell your daughter you are delighted that she is interested in learning about the subject (in the right way) and sit down and read it with her to be sure she understands it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband claims that an alcoholic drinks at least a fifth every day and has to have a shot before breakfast. I say this is not true. My husband thinks because he can make a fifth last two days and never takes a drink before twelve noon he has no drinking problem. He has not missed a day's work so far but I am afraid it will get out of hand. Do you think I should worry or not?

A WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Worrying won't help. Your husband is consuming enough whiskey to become an alcoholic if he isn't already one. Urge him to get professional help. And — A. A. is free, you know.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. B.: I knew you could do it. After shedding 30 pounds you are your old "sylph" again. Congratulations!

The State Board of School Finance said the penalties included $24,791 for Berkeley County; $86,247 for Fayette; $56,336 for Greenbrier; $22,586 for Mason, and $1,168 in Wood.

The counties will be penalized in amounts proportionate to the percentages by which their non-utility assessments were short of 40. Berkeley was off 3.47 per cent; Fayette, 3.59; Greenbrier, 4.59; Mason, 4.29, and Wood, 0.11.

Under provisions of a 1953 legislative act designed to encourage greater local support of public schools, counties must get their assessments up to 45 per cent of appraised values determined by the State Tax Department for calendar 1958 or be penalized accordingly.

In 1959 and for each year thereafter, the assessments must be at a 50-per cent level.

'Program Of Studies' Theme Of Area PTA Meet Monday

OAKLAND — "Program of Studies for Next Year" will be the theme at a meeting of the Southwestern Garrett County PTA Monday night.

Following a brief business meeting, parents will meet with grade level teachers in which their son or daughter expects to be enrolled next year. This will give parents an insight into the various subjects to be taught next year.

Prior to the business meeting, parents will have an opportunity to discuss progress of their children with teachers.

"In view of the fact that reports are being issued just prior to the meeting, this will afford parents an opportunity to discuss their children's progress personally," Maurice Brookhart, president, stated.

"All too often, parents take teachers for granted. A word of praise for their efforts in helping their children grow into mature young citizens can go a long way to help our teachers feel as though their work is truly appreciated," he said.

The above program was one of several items discussed at the recent executive council meeting. The date set for the PTA dinner was changed from May 9 to Monday, May 5.

The hospitality committee, which is headed by Mrs. Elizabeth Randol was appointed to handle ticket sales. Mrs. Sarah Wine will be chairman of the bake sale to be held in conjunction with the dinner.

The executive committee agreed to give three free tickets to the best student-designed poster advertising the dinner. Arrangements and contest rules are to be worked out by school officials.

The committee also cancelled the talent show and recommended that the PTA plan for such a show early next fall.

Braves Begin To Look Like Real Champs

By FRED DE LUCA
INS Sports Writer

It came a couple of days late but two World Series heroes, Lew Burdette and Eddie Mathews, finally have the Milwaukee Braves looking like the world champions they are.

The Braves had unfurled their world championship banner opening day but then promptly lost to Pittsburgh in an extra-inning game. Yesterday was another story, though, as Burdette and Mathews carried the Braves to a 6-1 victory over the Pirates.

Between them, the crew-cut hurler and the muscular third baseman handled all the pitching and hitting for the Braves. Mathews banged two homers good for five runs and Burdette singled home the other Milwaukee marker.

Bucs Held To Seven Hits
The lean righthander also limited the Pirates to seven hits. Starter and loser Vern Law gave up the first Mathews' clout and the second came off reliever Bonnie Daniels.

Mathews now has four homers in ten at-bats this season.

In other National League games, San Francisco downed Los Angeles, 7 to 4, to take the rubber match of their three-game series. In a night contest, the Chicago Cubs again whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox, behind newcomers Elly Wynn and Al Smith, nipped Detroit, 4 to 3. Mickey Vernon's pinch-dugout gave Cleveland a 3-0-2 verdict over Kansas City and New York defeated Boston, 3 to 1, with Johnny Kuck pitching a seven-inning shutout.

Staley Rescues Wynn
Wynn and Smith, both acquired from Cleveland, were the pitching and hitting stars for the White Sox, although Gerry Staley saved Wynn's victory with a slick relief job. Smith had two hits and drove in a pair of runs. The deciding run was knocked in by Bubba Phillips. Frank Lary lost for the Tigers, who had beaten Chicago in the first two games of the set.

Vernon's hit came with two out in the ninth off KC starter Duke Maas and drove in the tying and winning runs to give rookie Jim (Mudcat) Grant the victory. Bob Cerv delivered both KC runs with a single and homer.

The big blow for the Yankees was Mickey Mantle's first homer of the season. Kucks held the Red Sox to seven hits and lost his shutout in the ninth when Jackie Jensen belted his third homer of the young season. Tom Brewer absorbed the loss.

Harshman gave up only one hit over 5½ innings to gain the Oriole win. He relieved Milt Pappas when the 18-year-old rookie got a little wild. Together they gave Washington three hits. Gus Triandos and Brooks Robinson slugged homers and Chuck Stobbs was tagged with the loss.

Newk Hurts Arm
The Giants scored three times in the first and three more in the fourth after the Dodgers came up with a trio of their own. Jim Davenport, San Francisco's rookie third baseman, whacked four hits and freshman catcher Bob Schmidt homered. Gino Cimoli belted a circuit for the Dodgers.

The winning and losing pitchers, reliever Curt Barclay and Don Newcombe, both were forced out of the game with arm trouble. Newk's ailment might be serious.

Rookie righthander Glen Hobbie kept the Chicago Cub victory string intact and left the Cardinals still winless. Hobbie needed relief when he lost control and he got it from Dave Hillman and Ed Mayer.

Rookie Tony Taylor drove in two runs off Lindy McDaniel of the Cards and another Cub freshman, John Goryl, homered.

One St. Louis marker came on Stan Musial's homer. It lifted The Man past Mel Ott's all-time National League total-base record of 5,041 which Musial tied Tuesday.

'STOVE EXEC BOARD REVIEW'S LOOP RULES

The executive board of the Hot Stove Baseball League met last night and reviewed the Pony League rules which will again govern play in the loop this summer.

Frank Hinz, secretary, also emphasized that practice is not to begin until after May 1 when the insurance becomes effective. All managers and coaches are also to sign and be approved before the drills begin.

The league will again operate with eight teams, the Bedford Road Optimist Club replacing Exchange Club this summer. The circuit will start the last week in May with all the teams having new uniforms.

Ed Mathews Leads Majors In Consistency

By International News Service

It is a little known fact, but Eddie Mathews is the most consistent home-run hitter in the major leagues.

The Milwaukee third baseman hits homers with greater frequency than anyone, including his nearest pursuers—Ted Williams, Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle.

Before the 1958 season began, Mathews had 222 homers in 3,206 official at-bats, meaning he belted a homer every 14.4 times up.

Williams had 456 in 6,713 times up for a 14.7 average while Mays had 187 circuits in 2,899 at-bats for 15.5. Mickey Mantle belted still further with 297 homers in 3,418 times up for 16.5.

The Milwaukee star apparently has no intention of losing his homer distinction this year. He already has hit four in ten times up covering a period of two games. The four blasts accounted for seven runs batted in.

Two of the homers produced five runs yesterday as the Braves dumped Pittsburgh, 6 to 1.

Mathews, a husky six-foot 200-pounder, was born in Texarkana, Tex., but lives now in Brookfield, Wis.

He will be 27 in October and figures to end up his career as one of the top home run hitters in the history of the National League.

Derby Eligibles Go Tomorrow In Laurel's Feature

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Five Kentucky Derby eligibles headed by Clandestine and Nala are expected to go to the post tomorrow in the $20,000-added Chesapeake Stakes.

Clandestine, owned by Mrs. Winston Guest, won his first start this year on April 4 at Jamaica with the veteran Eddie Arcaro in the saddle.

Arcaro was still high on the colt after the son of Double Jay. Conniver finished second at odds of 1-2 to 2 in allowance company on April 12. Arcaro supposedly was set to ride Clandestine in the Derby.

But he changed his mind shortly after that when offered the chance to ride Maine Chance Stable's Jewel's Reward in the Kentucky classic.

Nala, owned by Mrs. Marion du Pont Scott, is another likely favorite in the Chesapeake, which may also bring together Derby eligibles Pemberton, owned by William Bishop; Principado, owned by Roslyn Farm, and Chance It Tony, the property of Mrs. Anthony Cannuli.

Nala, son of Nasrullah and Arcara, will be seeking his first stakes victory in the 37th running of the mile and one sixteenth Chesapeake.

The last colt to win the race and go on to take the Kentucky Derby was Citation, in 1948. Three others had done it previously — Whiskery in 1927, Cavalcade in 1934 and War Admiral in 1937.

Weaver, Collins Lead Derby Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (INS) — Par-smashing Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex., and Bill Collins of Grossinger, N. Y., lead the field into the second round of the $20,000 Kentucky Derby Golf Tournament.

Weaver and Collins spearheaded a mass attack on regulation figures for the Seneca Golf Course by firing seven-under-par 65s in the opening round of the tourney yesterday.

Close on their heels was Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., who carded a six-under-par 66.

Bracketed at 67 were Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., Tony Lema of Napa, Calif., and Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Kelley Seeks Second Win In Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Kelley, the defending champion, Yugoslavia's amazing Franjo Mihalic and grudge-seeking Eino Pulkkinen are the top-rated contenders in tomorrow's 62nd Boston A. A. Marathon.

The threesome is expected to produce the winner of the 25-mile, 383-yard classic course from suburban Hopkinton to Exeter Street in Boston's Back Bay.

Kelley, 27-year-old Groton, Conn., schoolteacher, won the BAA event last year in the record time of 2:20:05.

Oiling Of Streets To Begin Monday If Weather Holds

The city will begin oiling its more than 22 miles of unpaved streets Monday if the weather remains clear, it was announced yesterday by Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz.

The first order for oil was placed by the city yesterday. The 1,000-gallon shipment will be sufficient, Buchholz said, to get the work of repairing winter damage under way.

The street oiling plan is being started earlier than usual, he said, because of the exceptionally heavy damage from freezing and thawing over winter.

The schedule calls for the work to begin on streets between Frederick and Bedford streets.

When these connecting streets are oiled, Buchholz said crews will move to South Cumberland to oil streets in the Mapleside section.

The oiling will be done after streets are scraped, graded and rolled.

A heavy rain would delay the program as the surface must be dry when oil is applied or it will not be absorbed.

Bidding Rules Revamped For State Roads

BALTIMORE — The State Roads Commission has revamped its bidding regulations.

The action was prompted by a controversy over a recent rejection of a low bid on four miles of work on the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway.

From now on, the SRC must first approve the bidder's financial status and past experience. Also, bidders must submit each year a general application, a financial statement and summary of their experience.

Another rule is that a contractor must offer with each bid a statement on the progress and financial status of projects he is already working on for the State.

The recent squabble occurred when Charles W. Williams had his $2,400,000 bid turned down in favor of one $22,900 higher. The SRC said Williams was behind schedule on three state projects and the Jones Falls Expressway.

GETS BIG AWARD — A Detroit Circuit Court jury of eight women and four men yesterday awarded Carl Renda damages totalling $400,000. He had sued the United Auto Workers union and four of its aides.

Grass Fire Checked By LaVale Firemen

The LaVale Volunteer Fire Company was called to the Park Heights area yesterday to extinguish a grass fire. No damage was reported.

The South End Fire Company was called yesterday to Oldtown Road to extinguish a car fire. The blaze was out on arrival.

High Court Studies Auto Damage Suit

ANNAPOLIS — The Court of Appeals has under advisement an auto collision damage suit which originated in Wicomico County.

The high court heard the case yesterday in which Carlton H. Davis and his son William, of Fruitland, appealed a Circuit Court verdict which awarded $491 to Harold W. Taylor.

Taylor, of Salisbury, claimed the damages to his car nearly four years ago when it was in collision with the Davis car, driven by William.

The Davises claimed Taylor failed to yield the right of way at the intersection of E. William and Davis Streets in Salisbury. They said Taylor's suit should have been dismissed and they should have been awarded $920 in damages.

Taylor claimed he had cleared the intersection and said the negligence was due to the way young Davis was driving.

Less Salty

The Persian Gulf is less salty than other seas, because fresh waters from Iraq's Tigris and Euphrates Rivers pour into the gulf and its juncture with the Gulf of Oman, arm of the Indian Ocean, is so narrow and crooked that little salt water enters.

Airport Food Workers Back

PITTSBURGH — Some 100 kitchen and catering workers serving airlines at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport ended a two-day strike last night after a wage agreement was reached.

The new three-year contract between Dist. 50, United Mine Workers, and the A. C. Catering Co. calls for a wage raise of 21 cents an hour for male employees and 16 cents for female workers the first year. An annual wage re-opening clause is in the agreement.

Happens To Everyone

RIGBY, Idaho — Mark Wilkie and Paul Hains of Idaho Falls had to hitch a ride after they ran out of gas while driving here to attend a convention of service station operators.

Route 40 Association Starts Membership Drive

A membership campaign is being launched by the Route 40 Association, Inc., according to James Garland, president, and will open with a meeting and buffet luncheon at the Cumberland Brewing Company on April 30.

There will be discussion on the Route 40 problem, and an effort is being made to have a speaker who can discuss the situation, to assist the group in its efforts.

to have the historic highway's improvement work expedited. Members of the membership committee include James Garland, Edward Habeck, John Towler, Edward Wolfe, A. E. Kight, Robin Wolford, Eldon Shipway, John S. Pritchard, Clifford Crowe, James A. Avirett, William A. Wilson and Carl Dulancy.
